

Typical drain connections are shown in figures 12, 13 and 14. Figure 12 shows typical connection. Figures 13 and 14 show possible connections when an air gap is required.

IMPORTANT
If no air gap is used and the drain line is run into a sink or disposer, the drain line must be elevated to a point higher than the highest water level of the sink to prevent back siphoning into the dishwasher.

NOTE: If connection to an air gap is required by local code, air gap kits are available from local plumbing sources. Install the air gap according to the manufacturer's instructions.

CAUTION
Failure to provide the proper drain connection height, 20" (508mm) above floor level with high loop or air gap, will result in improper draining of the dishwasher. Improper draining may cause damage to the dishwasher.

Connecting the Hot Water Supply Line
The hot water supply line should be flushed to clear any foreign material BEFORE connecting the dishwasher. Make sure there are no sharp bends or kinks which might restrict water flow.

Figure 15.

Apply Teflon tape or other pipe sealant to 90° elbow fitting and connect directly to water inlet valve. Attach other end of fitting to your water supply line.

When connecting threaded pipe use pipe thread compound or Teflon tape to seal the connection. Turn on the water supply to check for leaks after making connections.

If using a solder joint instead of a compression fitting be sure to make all solder connections before connecting the water line to the dishwasher. Do not solder within 6 inches (152.4 mm) of the dishwasher's inlet valve. Temperatures required for soldering will damage the valve.
